Yamada v. Green Grocers ▾

A7435

Research facts

My client was shopping in a grocery store when he slipped and fell on pasta sauce splattered on the floor. He suffered a fractured ankle and a laceration from the pasta sauce jar's shattered glass. Security footage shows that another customer had dropped the jar about 5 minutes before the fall, but the grocery store has no records of being informed of the mess. What is the standard of care of a grocery store when it comes to hazards created by other customers?
